

Dear Year 6,

We are so incredibly proud of all your hard work this year and the amazing progress you have made so far in your learning. We have particularly enjoyed your book recommendations over the last couple of months and sharing the love and passion for reading that is so evident in our year group (amongst both the children and the staff). Everything you have been working on this year, and the work we are sending you home with, will ensure you are prepared for your secondary school adventure, which lies ahead.

Over the next few weeks, you will be working from home and we have provided you with many activities to be working through along with a notebook to record your learning in. Your CGP guides will of course be a valuable resource to support you with these tasks. The work given to you to take home is expected to last a few weeks – please do not panic that you have to complete it all in a few days. We have also provided you with a copy of the coping calendar which may support your wellbeing as it offers many suggestions for how to be positive. There is also a reading challenge sheet where you can challenge yourself to read a variety of books. We can't wait to discuss those books with you and share those that we have read ourselves.

In addition to the work provided in school this week, you have the three past SATs papers to work through. Please take your time to carefully read the questions, complete any necessary workings/annotations and check your answers. Remember BRUCE!

On our year group page of the website, there is a 'working from home' section, which will have your daily SPaG and Maths challenges and the reading for pleasure recommendations, as well as a link to the various websites that will offer you further learning opportunities. We will continue to monitor your mathematics and set you more tasks as you complete them and we look forward to TTRS battles and Rockslams with you.

You might find it useful to use the timetable provided to help you plan and organise your day, ensuring you give yourself plenty of breaks too. Remember, playing card games, board games or having conversations with people are also important and valuable activities. Perhaps you could write a letter to someone important to you to show them you are thinking of them.

Our Summer Term topics are 'The Victorians' and 'Evolution and Inheritance'. You could begin to research these areas as an opportunity to prepare yourself for the learning in school.

Even though the majority of you have been in school this week and so have taken this work home with you, we ask that you check the 'working from home' page on our website daily for other tasks. Those that have not been in school can use the 'booklets' page of the website to access the learning as well as our 'working from home' page.

Most importantly, we will miss you at school and look forward to seeing you when we are all back. Stay safe and healthy.

Year 6 team.
